Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I believe the settlement, as I understand it, is insufficient considering the damage done by Microsoft by their anti-competitive business practices as a monopoly. Even during this trial their practices haven't changed. Not only does it not loosen their stranglehold on the market, I believe it strengthens their grip. The settlement also does not make any reparations for the abuses already done, before and during the trial. Strengthening their monopoly by putting their software in schools that otherwise probably wouldn't have used it is not wise. I am completely opposed to this settlement.

Sincerely,
